Parker's Home Life.

Judge Parker owns and cultivates three good farms. He has a herd of pure blooded, red poll cattle, fine horses, sheep and pigs, a good library and a little money carefully invested.

His entire wealth is estimated by one of his most intimate friends at about $30,000.

This small fortune is the result of good management and intelligent saving. He has managed to live well, entertain generously, contribute to a few charities and still have a moderate fortune for his family in case of his death.

The Judge's wife is a charming woman, and her husband's ideal. She is intelligent, well-read, traveled, a tactful, sympathetic hostess, a woman of great gentleness and common sense.

His only child is the wife of Rev. Charles Hall, rector of the Episcopal Mission Church of the Holy Cross, at Kingston.

The Judge's wife and daughter are not what might be called "society" women. They are of the simple, high-bred sort, accustomed to the refinements and dignities of life.

There are two grandchildren, Parker Alton Hall, of 4 years; and Mary Hall, of 2 years. These two children spend much of their time on the Judge's knee. His dignity always vanishes when they appear.

It is on his farm at Esopus that the Judge's temperament finds its full expression.

None of his eight farm hands knows half as much as he about the crops, or trees or cattle.

He finds more pleasure in growing crops and raising cattle, sheep and pigs than in the gaieties of city life.

Thrifty, orderliness and energy shows themselves on all sides.

He usually rises at 6:30 o'clock, takes a bath, shaves and dresses himself in half an hour. Then he takes a cup of coffee, mounts his horse and rides for an hour.

On his return he attends himself to business; after that a big breakfast. Then to the court, or, if he is at Esopus, to work in his library.

He always puts on evening dress for dinner.

The Judge drinks water at the table except when he has guests. Then he takes a little wine. He smokes only after dinner.

He seldom retires before midnight.

Here is what Judge Parker's mother says of the formative period of his life:

"When I say that Alton was a good boy, I do not mean you to infer that he never needed correction. He was a healthy boy, with a boy's faults, indeed. As his mother, I felt it my duty to chastise him, and I did it as wisely as I knew how. But as he grew older he was certainly as good a boy as anyone could desire. He helped his father about the farm after hours when he came home from the district school which he attended. He had his share of the chore to do in the morning and in the evening. During the summer he worked in the fields according to his year, and in his later youth he did a big day's work without a murmur. He was a cheerful, dutiful son.

"When he outgrew the district school he went to the academy in Cortland, and later attended the State Normal School, studying to fit himself to teach. I have said that he was a studious bent. He was a voracious reader of history, political subjects, and took great interest in public affairs. He was a dignified young man, impressing all who met him with the fact that he had a purpose. And at the same time he was full of good nature and dearly loved a joke."

To a friend who urged him to set aside his ideas of judicial propriety and make a statement of his political views, and who expressed a fear that continued silence might prevent his nomination, Judge Parker said:

"Then let the nomination go. It is an office that should neither be sought nor declined."—From the New York World.

Secret of Success.

Says the Southern Farm Gazette: The secret of farm success is getting money out of your surplus. One man will rush into the market with his corn and oats and sell it for 10, 15, or 20 cents a bushel; another will hold his for better price and a little later will get 25 to 50 cents for it. One man will sell his hog to the town butcher for 25 cents; another will peddle his among the people at 6 cents; or bacon it and sell for 8 or 10 cents. This is the mercantile part of farming, and is the one in which our farmers are most deficient. Our farmers stand greatly in need of education along these lines. To grow a crop is but half the battle. To save and use the crop as food for man and beast and convert the surplus into money is the better half of the year's work.—Indiana Farmer.

HENRY G. DAVIS

DEMOCRATIC VICE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE.

HIS ENTRY INTO POLITICS.

At the close of the war Mr. Davis first entered politics. Having been a strong Union man, his sympathies were at first with the Republican party, and became a candidate for the Legislature. The discovery of trickery and dishonesty on the part of some of the Republican leaders in the State at the time, however, turned him from the party. Thoroughly honest and upright himself in all his dealings, he could not tolerate dishonesty in politics, and he, therefore, cut loose entirely from the Republican organization and joined the opposition. In 1886 he was elected to the lower house in the Legislature as a Union-Conservative, and took a leading part in its deliberations. Two years later he was chosen State Senator as a Democrat.

In 1871 he was elected United States Senator from West Virginia as a Democrat, succeeding W. T. Willey. He received almost a unanimous vote of the Legislature, even Republicans voting for him. Six years later he was re-elected, and during two years of the latter period, when the Democrats were in control of the Senate, he held the important position of chairman of the Committee on Appropriation. He was, in fact, one of the leaders of the Senate. At the expiration of his second term he declined to become a candidate for reelection, fearing that by longer service in the Senate he would jeopardize his business interests in the State by reason of his inability to devote his entire time and attention to them. By retiring from office Senator Davis did not cease his interests in political affairs; he continued to take an active part both in State and national politics.

In the Democratic National Convention of 1884 Senator Davis was one of the foremost candidates for Vice President, and doubtless could have had the nomination had he consented to accept it. It was believed that the late Thomas A. Hendricks, who had been a candidate for President, would not accept the nomination for Vice President and that it would go to Senator Davis. Senator Davis refused, however, to allow his name to be considered and threw his strength to Mr. Hendricks, who was nominated on the ticket with Cleveland and elected. Senator Davis was called into consultation with the Democratic President-elect upon the matter of the selection of members of his Cabinet, and had the Treasury portfolio gone to any other than a New York man, Senator Davis would undoubtedly have filled that important position.

In 1888 Senator Davis was urged to accept the nomination for Governor, but he declined. In the matter of attending Democratic National Conventions it is said that his record exceeds that of any other Democrat in the country. He has been a delegate to six National Conventions of his party, and again this year headed the West Virginia delegation to the St. Louis Convention, making in all seven National Conventions of which he has been a member.

Senator Davis was one of the United States delegates who formulated the scheme for bringing the republics of North, Central and South America together, which resulted in the establishment of the Bureau of American Republics. He was also a delegate to the second international conference, held two years ago in the City of Mexico. Another project in which Senator Davis is interested is the international railway project, which contemplates a continuous road from Boston to Santiago, Chile and Buenos Ayres. In this undertaking he is associated with Andrew Carnegie. Senator Davis and Mr. Carnegie provided the funds for sending representatives to Central and South America to investigate the project. The Senator realizes, of course, that it is a work of the future, and that while, despite his good health and prospects of many years of useful life, he may not live to see an accomplished fact, he wishes to be known as one of those who foresaw the possibilities and was the first to act in the undertaking.

Y. M. C. A. Growth in Kentucky.

A resume of the growth and development of the Young Men's Christian Association work in Kentucky for the past three years, under the supervision of the State Executive Committee, has been sent to the International Committee, and will appear in the Year Book of 1904. It contains the following information:

During the past three years the growth of the various departments in the State—City, Railroad, Student and County—has been notable. There are now 74 Associations in the State. Ten of these are city, seven railroad, twenty-seven student, and thirty town. Fifty-one secretaries are employed. Two assistants have been added to the secretaries force of the State Committee. With this report, the State Secretary, Mr. Henry E. Rosey, completes fifteen years of service in the State.

AN ENCOURAGING GROWTH

In the material equipment of the Associations of the State there has been an encouraging growth. Buildings have been opened for the railroad departments at Ashland and Corbin, costing $8,000 and $6,500 respectively. Lexington has raised $10,000 for a new building now in process of construction. A building at Covington has been secured by the securing of $50,000 in subscriptions. Hartford, Ohio county, owns the first county Association building in the State. Building movements are in progress in a number of other communities. The Louisville Association raised a Jubilee fund of $19,000 to cover the mortgage indebtedness and cost of improvements on its building.

OTHER STATES FOLLOWING.

The employment of a county work department secretary, begun in this State in 1889, has been followed by several other States and by the International Committee. A second secretary is now employed by the State Committee for the supervision of this department. Eight counties are organized, each with an employed county secretary. County work in Kentucky is rapidly passing from its experimental stage.

The capital stock of railroads in the United States is more than $8,150,000,000

RIDE ON THE FERRIS WHEEL.

250 Feet in Diameter and Stands 264 Feet High, 36 Cars That Carry 60 Persons Each.

Paris held a great Exposition in 1900 but failed to produce any feature to take the place of the Eiffel Tower. St. Louis, in 1904, planned and produced the greatest Exposition the world has ever seen. As Paris failed to build her own Eiffel Tower, so did St. Louis fail to equal the far-famed Ferris Wheel.

The problem of moving the Ferris Wheel from Chicago to St. Louis was stupendous—4,200 tons of material, including the 70-ton axle, besides engines, boilers and derricks and falsework, had to be transported. One hundred and seventy-five freight cars were required.

The Wheel is built upon the bicycle principle, with immense tension spokes, 2 15-16 in. diam. The wheel is 250 ft. in diameter and stands 264 ft. high. In reality it is two wheels securely braced together. Between the outer rims of these wheels the eleven-ton cars are suspended on 4 in. pins, 6 ft. long. These cars are 13 ft. wide, 26 ft. long, 9 ft. high and will carry 60 persons each. There are 36 of them, so the total capacity of the wheel is 2,160 persons. At several times in its history the Wheel has been filled to its capacity. The axle of the Wheel is a solid steel forging, 32 in. in diameter and 45 ft. long.

The weight of the wheel is carried upon two four-post towers, 6 ft. square on top and 40x50 ft. at the base. These in turn rest upon solid concrete and steel beam pillars, which are carried down to solid rock, 26 ft. below the surface of the ground. The towers are anchored to the bottom of this mass of concrete by 2x4 in. eyebars, so that the Wheel is perfectly safe.

Two revolutions are given each passenger, and the time required is from 20 to 30 minutes. The location of the Wheel in the center of the Fair Grounds gives persons an opportunity to thoroughly familiarize themselves with the lay of the grounds and get a better general idea of the Fair than they could by days of tramping. In addition, one gets a view of St. Louis, the Mississippi River, and the beautiful forests, hills and dunes for fifty miles around. At night, the view of the illumination of the buildings and grounds is simply magnificent.

When you go to the Fair, do not fail to ride upon it.

Words of Approval.

P. O. MORELAND, Jr., July 26, 1904. Dear Sir:—Copies of the Advocate received, and very much appreciated. So much that I condensed your report (of National Prohibition Convention) and had it published in our county paper. (Interior Journal at Stanford.) Giving your paper credit. If the press of our nation would take the stand you do there would not be much need of a Prohibition Party. Many thanks. Very truly,

A. W. CARPENTER.

DAVIS THE BRAKEMAN.

Comrade Tells How Vice Presidential Candidate Busted.

Adam Medley, who for fifty years ran an engine on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, says Henry G. Davis, the Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, was as big a railroad man as he is a politician and financier. He says he ought to know, for he ran the engine and Mr. Davis had charge of the train as conductor for a number of years on the main line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Medley, who has long since been retired and placed on a salary, could hardly contain himself when he heard that his former companion had been named for so distinguished an office.

"We ran from Baltimore to Wheeling in those days," said Mr. Medley, "and Davis was on hand when the clock struck the hour, and I can tell you that every minute of the time after that he was keenly alive to the interests of the company. He was pretty well up in the railroad world when I met him. He had been braking and was just then getting his eyes open, so to speak. He began to take an interest in the vacant land along the line, and frequently spoke of the rich mining prospects offered by various inviting tracts of coal property in the mountainous districts."

"Shortly after Davis and I rounded out a pretty good spell of rail-roading he was called to the agency of the company at Piedmont. I can tell you that was a pretty big thing in those days, about as big as a district superintendency is now. He was the big man from that on, but no matter how big he got from a railroad point of view, no matter how his authority increased, he was the same old 'Henry G.' Shortly after he was promoted to the Piedmont office he began to carry out the plans he had matured long years before."

"As soon as he got money he invested in timber and coal lands, and in the course of a few years he had thousands of acres of both in the eastern part of the State. I can remember when he bought virgin forests, the ground underlaid with rich coal for $1.25 an acre. Now you could not buy them for 1,000 times as much. 'Henry G.' as we called him, got his wealth through genuine hustle, and that's all there is to it, and if he's inaugurated Mr. Medley will be one of the guests."—Wheeling, W. Va., Cor. to N. Y. Evening Sun.

Free Reclining Chair Cars to the World's Fair.

The Southern Railway has inaugurated a line of free reclining chair cars on the night trains between Lexington, Louisville and St. Louis through without change in each direction, in addition to the through sleepers and coaches heretofore operated.

These are brand new vestibuled cars with all the latest improvements, including smoking compartment, separate wash rooms for ladies and gentlemen, lighted by pinstech gas. These reclining chair cars are sure to prove popular with the patrons of the road, as they are very comfortable, and at night the chairs can be turned back and used instead of the Pullman Sleeper without any extra charge. Any passenger holding a regular through ticket over the Southern Railway is entitled to ride in these cars. 31p

COMING SURE.

A grand jury in Chicago suggested that all information relative to race track gambling be eliminated from the columns of the newspapers, and acting on this suggestion the only Democratic paper of that city led, and words of praise followed from public spirited men; judges, lawyers, clergymen and business men.

It seems from what we can gather from the press, the good people of the country are claiming the saddles. That they are demanding an obliteration of trickery methods, gambling and immorality. A strict observance of Sunday laws, and that when saloons are licensed that they be forced to run strictly in accord with the laws governing them. An other demand worth while is that no man admitted to drink or whose habits would preclude giving his full time and powers to the duties of the office he would desire to fill, be named as its representative. He must be clear-headed, industrious and in full possession of his faculties. This looks like a return to good old times of bygone days, and we hope and shall labor for the local ticket put to itself on record and be in perfect accord with the coming sentiment, beginning at Chicago taking in St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York and other cities, States and counties, including Kentucky, Montgomery county and Mt. Sterling.

UNEASY.

Office-holding and aspiring Republicans are very anxious about the election of Roosevelt. But those who have just been playing the part of a voter are not so much concerned, and unless the prevailing spirit of apathy can be removed, Judge Parker will be elected by a large vote.

Judge Tipton is made busy now and then by the appearance of the police with fellows charged with drunkenness. The boisterous and profane stand in need of an introduction to Judge Tipton also.

Judge Parker is busy preparing his speech of acceptance and for fear it may count as much as did that telegram, Republicans have become very anxious.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Quite a number of young folks were entertained by an impromptu dance at the Masonic Temple Monday evening.

Mr. Albert Bridges and wife entertained handsomely Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. Frank Chensault's house party.

Miss Amanda Trompison will entertain from seven to nine and from nine to eleven Thursday evening in honor of Miss Zullek, of Cincinnati.

Miss Mary Pratt Hedden entertained at six o'clock dinner on Monday, Mr. J. A. Fitzgerald, Mr. T. P. Sutton, Misses Alma Nesbitt, Mary Smith and Minnie Groves.

Friday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Grubbs gave a lawn party in honor of their children. There were 65 present and they, each one of them had a most elegant time. Not only was it the children that were so joyous but the grown up folks who witnessed the pleasure of the children.

Miss Nell Sutton's house party was given a surprise dance by a number of young men of the town on Monday evening. The young gentlemen brought music and canvas and made all preparations for a great time. Miss Sutton furnished delightful refreshments and a most elegant time is reported by all who attended and had the pleasure of knowing the members of that most charming house party. In addition to the house party and young men of Mt. Sterling, there were present Misses Anna Taul and Mary Lookridge, of this city, and Mr. Clay Byron, of Ashland.

Women who play cards declared by the Mayor of Memphis, Tenn., to be base of society.

"Progressive" snare, bridge, whist and all other games played in drawing rooms for cut glass prizes and other articles of value cause more defilement than the games of chance presided over by the professional gamblers. I appeal to the social clubs and the women of this city to give me their aid in purifying Memphis.

Mayor Williams has turned on the reform element with this pronouncement. Driven by the demands of the committee of public safety to close the gambling houses, the Mayor has gone to the extent of shutting all the saloons of the city between the hours of midnight and four o'clock in the morning. Now he has called on the women to aid by stopping their games in which rich prizes are given. As a result of the plea formal announcement has been made by the Philadelphia Club, the Wednesday Club and the exclusive Distaff Club that their card parties for the coming week have been indefinitely postponed. Club women do not believe that Mayor Williams' appeal is intended as a threat that he will enforce the law and prevent social games. They are unanimous in the declaration that he is carrying the crusade too far.—X.

The female gamblers of our city see how their innocent (?) amusement is regarded in other cities. We have from time to time for many months pointed out that gambling in the parlors of the social set, while in more refined surroundings, is in principle on an equal with the gambling by professionals. We have thought that if the circuit judges of our State would instruct the grand juries to investigate these refined (?) progressive eucher parties, they would be doing a good service to their respective communities. We are not surprised that these society women of Memphis think the Mayor is carrying the crusade too far; even some men in towns as small as Mt. Sterling object to our mild protest against some things.

Come in and get one of our line of Studebakers—the kind that stands up. If you have much hauling to do a Studebaker will pay for itself in a few months by saving you time and trouble and the expense of constant repairs.

You Know the Studebaker Wagon

For more than fifty years its reputation has grown better every year. This reputation is due to the good quality that has always been a part of the Studebaker Wagon. Each part is made from the best material—best fitted for that part. New England black birch makes the best hubs—the Studebaker hubs are made of it. But cut, second growth black hickory is the best for axles—Studebaker axles are made of it. Selected white oak is best for spokes and running gear—that is what is used in the Studebaker Wagon. ### Rats Completely Annihilated.

It needs but a few months more use of Stearns' Electric Rat and Roach Paste to completely free the city from the rats and mice with which it was afflicted a year or so ago. Stearns' Paste has been used quite freely in the best residences and in many stores. In all these places there are today no rats, mice or cockroaches. This Paste drives the rats and mice out of the house to die, and can be depended upon to rid the house of these pests. It is safe and gives universal satisfaction. Dealers generally have the Paste for sale, or it will be sent, express prepaid on receipt of price, by the Stearns' Electric Paste Co., Tribune Building, Chicago, Ill. Small size, 50¢; Hotel size, eight times the quantity, $1.00.

PICTURESQUE ISOLATION.

Everything is Sleepy and Restful in St. Pierre on the Island of St. Vincent.

The social life of St. Pierre is genial and serene. Hospitality is a virtue; the stranger is made at home, writes P. T. McGrath, in Booklovers Magazine. In summer, when the French and British warships, that keep the peace among their fisherfolk, visit the port, gay times ensue. Balls and parties are held, usually on Sunday evenings, and racing and firing matches organized. The cafes must, however, close at ten each night, when a gendarme drummer parades the town, beating "lights out." In the forenoon this functionary, by blast of bugle, summons the curious to the public square, to proclaim orders, sales and obituaries. Funerals are conducted most elaborately on the continental plan, and often cost large sums. Weddings, too, involve dots and contracts as in the motherland. Waterpipes running from reservoirs in the hills, and electric lights replacing the quaint oil lamps, whose ornamental brackets still adorn the street corners, are the sole evidence of modern progress. There are no trams, street cars, telephones, newspapers, theaters, laundries or other accessories of advanced existence. Everything is sleepy, restful, and old fashioned. Save for the Atlantic cable, which touches there, it is as isolated from the world as Greenland.

Goats browse on the rocky inclines, and goat's milk is served at table. The cuisine is essentially French, though on four and Breton dishes being much in evidence. Wines are drunk by all, and even the fishermen are allowed by law a glass of brandy at each meal on board ship. Women wash all the clothing in the streams that cascade down the hillsides, and bleach it on the mossy turf. The men being away fishing, most of the work falls on the women, and they gather fagots of wood from the wreckage that drifts in, or crew the fire engine on occasion.

BOUNTIES PAID ON WOLVES.

Increase in Number of Animals Swells the Amount in Western States.

The wolf is more dreaded of humanity than any other animal. No doubt we of to-day inherit that dread from ancestors who had no reason to fear the long-fanged quadruped, for there are few portions of the world to-day where the wolf is really dangerous to mankind, says Field and Stream. Dangerous to man's pocket, to his herds and flocks, he is still to-day in many portions of the country. A ranch in Montana or Mexico may pay many hundreds of dollars a year for gray wolf scalp. Such a scalp is cheap at $12 or $15 to the rancher, for the gray robber would certainly have destroyed many times that value in calves or colts from the range. Yet in spite of all the warfare made upon them and all the prices put upon their heads these dreaded, mysterious, ghostlike, terror-inspiring creatures still hold their own. Outcasts for age, hated, persecuted, they still endure, each for himself and without a friend on earth, even among his own kind.

Last year the state of Minnesota paid over $6,000 a month in the best of the wolf season. One day of the month of last March the state auditor paid $6,158.50 in wolf bounties. The total for the few months preceding was $36,548.50. On this basis the current year will foot up nearly as much as the two years preceding, which appears to indicate that Brother Wolf is holding his own, even as a matter of commerce. In many parts of the western cattle range the gray wolves are increasing rather than decreasing.

IMPROVED TRAIN SERVICE.

Offered by the Henderson Route between Louisville and St. Louis.

Commencing Sunday, June 26th, Kentucky's popular line, the Henderson Route, will inaugurate a safe and Fast Day service between Louisville and St. Louis in each direction, and will improve the time and equipment generally of all trains between these points.

Three daily trains will be operated in each direction on the following safe schedules between Louisville and St. Louis:
Leave Louisville 8:30 a. m., 9:00 p. m., and 7:00 a. m. Arrive at St. Louis 6:16 p. m., 7:20 a. m. and 6:16 p. m.

The equipment is brand new (just from the shops), of the most modern vestibule pattern and is as fine as on any train operating in or out of Kentucky.

The 8:30 a. m. train, through without change of cars, will be composed of Pullman Observation Parlor Cars, Dining Car and high back seat passenger coaches.

The 9:00 p. m. train, through without change of cars, will consist of Pullman Sleeping Car, Free Reclining Chair Cars, and high back seat passenger coaches.

The 7:00 a. m. train will have Parlor Cars, Dining Car and high back seat passenger coaches.

The Dining Car on Day trains will serve meals a la carte—you pay only for what you get.

All trains will leave from and arrive in the Seventh Street Union Depot, Louisville, arriving at and departing from the magnificent new Union Station, St. Louis.

In purchasing your tickets to St. Louis or to points west, ask the agent for tickets via Louisville and Henderson Route. He will have them in stock and will be glad to ticket you that way.

You will be satisfied in every respect with the accommodation and safe train service that is offered by this line, which has been termed the Official Route for Kentuckians.

What Is The Public?

A girl who had just finished sharpening a pencil picked up a book and sat down to read, and finger-prints appeared on the margins of the pages she turned. When someone called her attention to the fact she looked up in surprise.

"Yes, I know," she said, "but this is a book from the public library." Her tone seemed to indicate that there is no need of care in handling the books which belong to the public.

Two young people sat in a railway station waiting for a train. The hour was early and the train was near when they entered it. They ate a bag of peanuts together and dropped the shells upon the floor. One of them combined several packages, and let the extra wrapping-paper lie where it fell. When they left the waiting-room there was a most disorderly corner to annoy the traveling public throughout the day, yet neither of these two young people would have thought of such a thing as dropping peanut shells or waste paper on the floor at home.

Has the "public" rights that we are bound to respect? That question is answered when we stop to think that the public is only a general name for the people about us. Is there any good reason why we should be more careless with the book which belongs to the community than if it were our own private property? Is there any more excuse for our interfering with the comfort of a hundred people than for inconveniencing a smaller number? It is a very narrow view of courtesy which limits its claims to the circle of one's especial friends.—Our Young Folks.

It is always safe to suspect the suspicious.

BARON VON PLEHVE,

Russian Minister of Interior, Torn to Pieces by Bomb Thrown Under Carriage.

Minister of Interior Von Plehve was assassinated Thursday morning while driving to the Baltic station to visit the Emperor at Peterhof Palace.

A bomb was thrown under the Minister's carriage, completely shattering it. M. Von Plehve was terribly mangled.

Senator Von Plehve was appointed Minister of the Interior April 18, 1903, succeeding M. Sipiaguine, who was assassinated April 16, 1902, by a student named Balachneff.

Several plots to assassinate the Minister have been discovered during the last two years, which period was marked by strong political rivalry between the Minister of the Interior and former Minister of Finance, M. Witte.

WILD SCENES ENSUE.

The horses dashed wildly away with the front wheels of the carriage, the only portion of the vehicle remaining intact.

Immediately there ensued a scene of the wildest confusion.

A GHASTLY SCENE.

The roadway was strewn with the wreckage of the carriage and pieces of the red lining of the Minister's official overcoat. A few yards from M. Von Plehve's body lay the shapeless heap of the coachman's remains.

The bomb thrower must have known perfectly well that Minister Von Plehve would pass the spot that morning, for the Minister makes his report to the Emperor every Thursday.

ASSASSIN'S CAREFUL PLANS.

M. Von Plehve was always apprehensive of attempts upon his life and used to drive rapidly as possible. The coachman, however, was compelled to go slow at this point on account of crowded traffic.

The assassin in laying his plans evidently foresaw this circumstance and, while the Minister's coachman slowed down, threw the bomb.

The Minister's servant, who was also on the carriage box, was badly wounded.

There were about 800 persons on the excursion from Lexington to St. Louis last Thursday, mostly members of the Broadway Christian Church, in charge of Rev. Mark Collins. Fare for trip, including lodging and breakfast, $20. Of these 150 were from Lexington. The return will be today.

Druggists Who Sell Dr. Miles' Nervine Agree, If It Fails, To Refund Cost.

Of course we reimburse the druggist. You know him, and trust him. Dr. Miles' Nervine is medicine for your nerves.

It cures diseases of the internal organs, by giving tone to the nerves which make these organs work. It is a novel theory—not of anatomy, but of treatment; first discovered by Dr. Miles, and since made use of by many wide-awake physicians, who appreciate its value in treating the sick.

If you are sick, we offer you a way to be made well—Dr. Miles' Nervine. This medicine is a scientific cure for nerve disorders, such as Neuralgia, Headache, Loss of Memory, Displeasure, Spasms, Backache, St. Vitus Dance, Epilepsy or Fits, Nervous Prostration, etc.

By toning up the nerves, Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine will also cure those diseases of the internal organs due to a disordered nervous system. Some of these are: Indigestion, Bilious Headache, Kidney Trouble, Chronic Constipation, Dropsy, Catarrh, Rheumatism, etc.

"My brother had nervous prostration, and was not expected to live. I prevailed upon him to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and now he has fully recovered. I remember I wrote you how it saved my life a few years ago when I had nervous trouble. I wish its merits to everyone."—REV. J. H. MITCHELL, Correctionville, Iowa.

Look After Your Seed Corn.

The matter of seed corn is seemingly somewhat out of question. But, like tobacco, seed corn is a twelve months' crop. Therefore, all seasons are suitable for seed corn talk; especially to those who take some pains to improve their corn. The corn crop as it now stands in the field, is far enough along in growth to enable one to pass judgment on the individual plants.

Improvement in plants of all kinds is brought about by the selection of the best plants for "mother plants," also by roguing or culling out the worst or the most undesirable plants. The seed corn patch, or that part of the corn field which has been set apart to grow the seed corn for the next year, should now be gone over and all undesirable plants chopped out. There are the weakly, spindling plants, which, if they ever do bear an ear, will be pulled down by its weight. Out with them. Then, there are the undersized plants. They should be cut down as should also those with short leaves and with narrow, ribbed leaves. A broad, long leaf is a good indication of constitution and thrift. Plants respond to those little extra attentions quite as much as animals do. This thorough care is a necessary part of thoroughbredness.—From Inland Farmer.

Sleep Good.

Don't let Mosquitoes keep you awake at night. Apply Paracamp to your face and hands before retiring. It will prevent the mosquitoes biting you. If they should happen to bite you it will relieve the pain and prevent swelling.

Story With a Moral.

A boy sat on a rail fence, enclosing a corn field. A city chap passing by remarked: "Your corn looks kind-a yellor, but"

"Yes, sir, that the kind we plant," answered the lad.

"It don't look like you'd get more than half a crop," said the city chap.

"Nope; we don't expect to; the land lord gets the other half."

The stranger hesitated a moment and then ventured: "There isn't very much difference between you and a fyul, boy."

"Nope, only a strip of weeds," said the farmer boy, and the city chap drove on.

Moral—Attend to your own affairs and let other people do the same.—ex

No man was ever yet scared into being a saint.

A grain of appetite will outweigh a ton of reason.

Insects it is said, will never attack books which are dusted once a year with powdered alum and white pepper.

Setter Not.

Candidates for public office should not appeal to the saloon, directly or indirectly, for electioneering purposes. The man who receives an office at the hands of the saloon and its friends places himself under obligations to the saloon and its friends.

The general public recognizes the saloon as a fruitful source of evil. Hence the large tax imposed for the privilege of opening the saloon and the legal restraints thrown around it with heavy penalties attached. Not so with any other business. It is strange, passing strange that any man, a member of a church, professing to be a follower of Christ, should ally himself with these institutions to procure an office. Equally strange that a Christian people will support such a combination.—Georgetown Times.

A Physician Healed.

Dr. Geo. Ewing, a practicing physician of Smith's Grove, Ky., for over thirty years, writes his personal experience with Foley's Kidney Cure: "For years I had been greatly bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and enlarged prostate gland. I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I commenced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured. I prescribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles. I have prescribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success." 35c

National Platform Indorsed by the State Democratic Committee.

The State Central and Executive Committees of the Democratic party met in joint session at Frankfort last week, Chairman Lewis McQuown presiding, and organized, re-electing Mr. Percy Haly as secretary and adopting resolutions congratulating the national Democracy upon the selection of Judge Parker and the Hon. Henry C. Davis, indorsing the platform, and pledging for Kentucky and old-time Democratic majority.

The State Central Committee, in a meeting following immediately, selected a Campaign Committee to manage the campaign this fall.

BAKER MADE CHAIRMAN.

The Campaign Committee, selected by unanimous vote, with all the members present, is headed by S. V. Hager, present State Auditor, and its other members are Congressman Ollie M. James, of the First district; Judge John M. Lasing, of Boone county, and Henry B. Hines, of Warren county.

For the office of State Election Commissioners the Central Committee recommended June W. Gayle, of Owen; Charles B. Poyntz, of Mason; Dr. John R. Collier, of Louisville, and Ben V. Smith, of Pulaski. From this number the Governor selects one Commissioner, who, with the Appellate Clerk and a member from the Republican ranks, composes the State Election Commission.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Mt. Sterling Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Mt. Sterling readers.

Mrs. J. T. Martin, of Paris, Ky., wife of J. T. Martin, collector, residing on Pleasant street, says: "From a fall I had about four years ago I injured myself quite seriously across the small of my back, resulting in a form of kidney trouble. The pains I suffered through my kidneys were most distressing and alarming. I doctored with many different kidney medicines but gained no marked relief nor improvement until on using Doan's Kidney Pills. I take pleasure in stating that Doan's Kidney Pills brought me around into a greatly improved condition. They are certainly a medicine of sterling quality."

Plenty more proof like this from Mt. Sterling people. Call at F. C. Duerson's drug store and ask what his customers report.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Bo Put Up His Gun.

One of our best practical farmers related to us the other day how he came to change his mind about killing birds. He said he formerly took a great deal of pleasure with his gun and dogs. About six months after coming to the territory he told his wife he would go out and kill a few quail. It was about four o'clock; so calling his dogs he started out on his own farm. He soon shot three quail, and his wife, knowing that if he got thoroughly interested in the pursuit of game he would be out till long after supper time, persuaded him to come back to the house and they would have supper, when he could go again. "All right," said the farmer; "I will dress these and we'll have them for supper." His wife remarked on the fullness of the craws of the birds, and on opening one it was found packed full of chinch bugs! Out of curiosity they counted and found over four hundred dead chinch bugs in the craw of one quail! Said the farmer in relating the circumstance to us: "I just cleaned up the gun and have not shot a bird since, and if you'll come down to my place of a morning or evening and see the birds coming to my farm you'll think they know their friends."—Dumb Animals.

More Ships Fall Into the Clutches of the Russians.

The owners of the British steamer Calchas, bound from Puget Sound to Japan, on 20th of July received a telegram from Hong Kong reporting that the Calchas has been seized by the Vladivostok squadron.

The Calchas cleared from Tacoma, Washington, July 8, and sailed from Victoria on the 10th. She had a cargo of 4,297 tons, including 7,846 pieces of timber, 23,300 sacks of flour, seventy tons of machinery, ten tons of cotton and fifty tons of tobacco. She was in port from June 24. She was to stop at Kobe, Hong Kong, Shanghai and Manila before proceeding to Liverpool.

THE FORMOSA SNEED.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company's steamer, Formosa, arrived at Suz, July 26, flying the Russian naval flag and with a prize crew on board. She was captured in the Red sea by one of the vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet.

NEW STANDARD DINING CAR

For World's Fair Traffic via Southern Railway.

On account of the popularity and greatly increased patronage of the SOUTHERN ST. LOUIS SPECIAL, (train No. 24) which leaves Lexington daily at 6:10 a. m. and Louisville at 9:00 a. m. for St. Louis the SOUTHERN RAILWAY has found it necessary to put into service magnificent new standard dining cars, which will provide service superior to any railroad in this section of the country.

The arrival time of this splendid train at St. Louis is 4:56 p. m. daily, this being the fastest train via any line from Lexington, Louisville and intermediate points to St. Louis.

This is very important news to all of the people of Indiana and Kentucky who live in the portion of those states penetrated by the SOUTHERN RAILWAY. All meals en route through those states are served a-la-carte on these trains. The spacious and comfortable dining cars will attract still greater patronage for this road.

These trains stop only at the principal points between Lexington and Louisville and St. Louis, and have been conspicuously popular with all first class travelers to the World's Fair. The most satisfactory way to appreciate the advantages of these trains is to compare with the appointments of cars on any other railroad operating into St. Louis.

The Exposition is now complete in every detail, presenting a picture too beautiful to describe. The generality of people from far distance who have delayed their visits for this completion, have now begun to come so that the finishing touch which the SOUTHERN RAILWAY has put upon it already superb train service is very timely and will doubtless be sincerely appreciated by the public generally.

THE SOUTHERN is many miles the shortest road from Lexington and Louisville and intermediate points to St. Louis. 1-tf

INDIGESTION

"I was troubled with stomach trouble. Thorford's Black-Draught did me more good in one week than all the doctors' medicine I took in a year."—MRS. SARAH E. SHIRFIELD, Bristowville, Ind.

Thorford's Black-Draught quickly invigorates the action of the stomach and cures even chronic cases of indigestion. If you will take a small dose of Thorford's Black-Draught occasionally you will keep your stomach and liver in perfect condition.

More sickness is caused by constipation than by any other disease. Thorford's Black-Draught not only relieves constipation but cures diarrhoea and dysentery and keeps the bowels regular.

All druggists sell 25-cent packages.

"Thorford's Black-Draught is the best medicine to regulate the bowels I have ever used."—MRS. A. M. SHANT, Shunde Ferry, N. C.

DEATHS.

Geo. G. Soper, of Winchester, died on July 27.

Robert Eiam, aged about fifty-eight once prominent in Morgan county official circles, died on Saturday, July 23rd, and was buried with Masonic honors on Sunday.

EDMONSON.—On Monday afternoon, August 1st, of gastritis, Mrs. S. W. Edmonson, who would have been forty-nine years old had she lived until November. She had been a member of the Methodist Church at Grassy Lick for near thirty-five years. She was Miss Sallie Belle Riggs and was married to Mr. Edmonson twenty-three years ago. They have no children. Remains were buried at the Riggs grave yard Tuesday afternoon after services at the grave, conducted by Rev. John R. Peoples. Mrs. Edmonson had lived in Mt. Sterling three years and was loved by all who had met her. She was the real Christian, the church member that had left all of her salvation to Christ. Would that the world was full of such trustful, happy Christians. On the 17th of June she received a fall at her home and broke a thigh bone and from this injury she had not fully recovered when attacked with gastritis which ended her life. Through all the intense suffering she was trustful and died in the faith.

YOUNG.—The telegraph notice of the sudden death of Col. Thomas J. Young brought surprise and sadness to his father's family and the host of friends here. The statement from Chicago given out to the press July 30th is as follows:

"Going to call on Col. Thos. J. Young, Edward Bean last night found his intended host dead. Walking into his friend's house without announcing himself, as was his custom, Mr. Bean found Mr. Young sitting as usual in a chair at a front window. His salutation was not returned, and when he investigated he found the man was lifeless. Heart disease was the cause."

He was a son of Judge John D. Young and wife, of this city. Col. Young at one time was editor of the Owingsville Outlook, later he

MARRIAGES.

GOOSEY-MARTIN.

On August first at the Court house, Judge A. A. Hazelrigg officiating, Alvin Goosey was married to Miss Nannie Martin.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The marriage of Miss Ann Dudley, of Georgetown, to Rev. W. O. Shewmaker, of Woodford county, is announced to take place at the home of the bride the 9th day of August. Miss Dudley has many friends here and is a relative of Mrs. Lou Hampton's family of this place. Miss Dudley is the daughter of the late Dr. R. M. Dudley, former President of Georgetown College and one of the most powerful preachers of the Baptist Church and Mr. Shewmaker is a talented preacher of the Southern Presbyterian Church, pastor at Pisgah, Woodford county.

STOFER-OLDHAM.

On last Thursday at high noon at the home of the bride, Rev. J. R. Hobbs officiating, Mr. Richard Stofor was married to Mrs. Nannie E. Oldham. The decorations were elaborate and beautiful and consisted of cut flowers, potted plants, ferns, etc. This wedding was made the more impressive by its half hour delay, occasioned by a heavy rain that fell at the appointed wedding hour, and we might add it was made more beautiful by the change of light occasioned by the heavy passing clouds going from the bright sunlight to a dusky darkness and thence a return to the bright mid day. After time for serious reflection on this honored institution, at twelve-thirty Mr. Richard Stofor and Mrs. Nannie E. Oldham appeared before the preacher who, with thoughts divine clothed in select language, gave a brief history of the institution of marriage, and united them in this God ordained relation. The bride wore a rich dark blue silk and the groom the conventional black. The entire residence was in wedding attire and four rooms were made the more artistic with the arrangement of choice flowers, center tables, rich coverings and tapers. The lunch was fine, and after a shower of rice Mr. and Mrs. Stofor left for St. Louis and expect to be at home after August 10th. This was really a delightful wedding, free from formality and wall flowers, and with all the up-to-date features worth anything combined with good old features in vogue "when you and I were boys, Clay." Mrs. B. A. Allen and Mrs. J. M. Graves, of Lexington, aunts of the bride, and her sister, Mrs. E. Veal, of Middleboro, and cousins, Misses Elizabeth and Anna Wallace, and Samuel Stofor and wife, of Lexington, were in attendance.

We will open Wednesday, August 10th, in large front room over Guthrie Clo. Co.

THE SICK.

Dr. J. M. Poynts has rallied and as we go to press his condition is reported much improved.

Chas. H. Wilson, who has been confined to his bed for a week with kidney trouble, is some better.

Miss Georgia Turner is not much improved. If there is any change in her condition she is weaker.

Judge M. M. Cassidy has so much improved as to be able to be rolled about the streets in his invalid chair.

Rev. Jim Tom Pieratt is seriously sick at Bushton, Ill. His son, Henry, of Hazel Green, went to see him on Thursday.

Miss Settie Oliver was to have opened school at High Top Monday morning, but was taken ill and is now at home near this city.

OLD INDIAN'S POKER SYSTEM

Aged Redskins Is Taught the Game and Proceeds to Clean Out His Instructors.

Kah-hung-way-way, better known as "Old John Smith," is probably the only Indian in the United States that could be classed as a humorist. John is the wit of the Chippewa nation, and among the white people of northern Minnesota is considered the wisest and the funniest in the country. John is somewhere in the neighborhood of 90 or 100, says the Duluth Herald.

John's home, at the mouth of Leech river, has long been known as "Gamblers' Point," for the reason that many desperate contests at the great national game have been played in John's cabin, on the bank of the river. His place became famous in the early days, as an abiding place during the hot months of summer for poker and lumbermen from Minneapolis, Duluth and other places who desired to have an outing. Their principal occupation while in the vicinity of John's home was poker playing. In a spirit of kindness they taught him to play, when they first came, and he used to sit in the games with them. If his guests won, they would give the money back to John, believing that he was unacquainted with the game and to keep the money would be nothing short of robbery. It invariably happened that John was always the winner when the guests got ready to depart.

It was some years before the truth of John's knowledge of the cards became known. It appears that he knew all the tricks that were sure winners. He possessed an old deer skin tobacco pouch and when playing would always sit with the pouch between his knees. When the time came to fill hands, John would evince an insatiable desire to smoke and would dive into the sack and replenish his pipe. Invariably, after filling his pipe, he would lay down the winning hand and take the pot. This went on for many years, until finally John could not stand the humorous side of his little game, and he told the boys one day how he did it. Inside the tobacco pouch was a whole deck of cards and when he wanted a good hand he would fill his pipe and incidentally his hand.

Uruguay Potatoes.

Potatoes said to be immune from disease have been cultivated experimentally in France for three years. The seed was obtained from Uruguay, where the plant grows on the banks of the Mercedes river. Its botanical name is Solanum commersonii, but the French are calling it the Uruguay Irish potato. The family to which it belongs is a large one. Among the new potatoes that cousins are the common potato, the eggplant, the tomato, bitter-sweet, the horse-nettle and the common nightshade. Some of its uncles and aunts are tobacco, jimsonweed, henbane and matrimony-vine. With so many medicinal herbs in the family even the common potato ought to be free from disease.—Youth's Companion.

COSTS NOTHING UNLESS CURED

A Fair Offer Made by W. S. Lloyd to All Sufferers From Catarrh.

W. S. Lloyd is selling Hyamel on a plan that has caused considerable talk amongst his customers.

The plan is different from that followed by other remedies, but the remedy itself is different also. This treatment for the cure of catarrh has such an unusual record of cures to its credit that W. S. Lloyd's offer to refund the money if it does not give the desired benefit. This is certainly one of the fairest offers that can be made and any one who has catarrh and does not take advantage of it is doing himself or herself an injustice.

Do not suffer any longer with tickling, smarting, burning, eye-watering troubles that afflict those who have catarrh. Hyamel will cure you, but if you should not find it adapted to your case, W. S. Lloyd will return your money.

TALL CONCRETE BUILDINGS.

Good Test Afforded by One in Cincinnati That Is Over Two Hundred Feet Tall.

A conspicuous example of a new departure in the construction of tall buildings is furnished by a just completed structure in Cincinnati. The dimensions are of sufficient magnitude to make the test a thorough one. The building is on a corner lot 50x100 feet and its height is 210 feet above the sidewalk, while the basement goes 12 feet lower in one part, and where the power plant is located, 20 feet. The material of the edifice is almost entirely concrete, reinforced with twisted rods of steel which serve to take up the tensile strain, the concrete being intended to resist only the strains of compression. This, says the Boston Transcript, is rather a bold advance along the line of a new idea, which, however, has had some partial and favorable tests in other places, notably in the ordeal of the Baltimore fire.

There has not been, however, in the Cincinnati building, a complete disregard of the conventionalities of the skyscraper of the steel and stone type which has received such wide exploitation in our large cities during the past dozen or 15 years, and a veneration of marble with glazed brick and terra cotta ornamentation conceals the novel characteristic of the structure. This was because the owners or architects hardly had the complete courage of their convictions and perhaps did not wish to advertise too conspicuously their disregard of precedents and prevailing methods.

The employment of material in the work is as follows: The concrete is made of high-grade Port land cement with clean sand of various sized grains and crushed stone. It is made monolithic by mixing with water, thus insuring adhesion to the twisted steel bars. Wind bracing has been carefully looked after. The building in question has confounded the prophets of disaster, who predicted that it would never reach the height prescribed in the plans, and if it did it would disintegrate, and fall in pieces by shirked cracks.

None of these foreboding disasters has been experienced. The structure seems as firm as though some great glacial movement had deposited it there and left it.

UNIQUE STORAGE OF ICE.

Wisconsin Man Has a Simple Yet Ingenious Way of Laying in Cold Chunks.

"I came across a farmer near Tomahawk recently who has a simple plan for saving ice, and one that might be used with advantage by city people to escape the clutches of the ice trust," said A. P. Lane, who has just returned from an outing in the woods of northern Wisconsin, relates the Milwaukee Sentinel.

"This fellow used ice, being in the dairy business, so he dug a hole under the front porch of his house, making it about seven feet deep and five feet long and five feet wide. Then when the real cold weather came he poured about two feet of water in the hole and let it freeze, first covering the bottom with sawdust. Then as the winter progressed he continued the process, and before the first thaw warned him of the coming of warm weather he covered the ice surface with sawdust and made a trap door through the floor of the porch. Now when he needs ice he has it handy.

Irritated, at Least.

Stuart Morgan Aldrich, Senator Aldrich's son, has a violent distaste for street dogs.

In Washington one day a yellow cur ran yelping and snapping at his heels, and the young man turned and gave the animal a kick. "Say, there, what did you kick my dog for?" a red-faced man exclaimed.

"The dog is mad," said Mr. Aldrich.

"Ah, it ain't mad," shouted the owner.

Mr. Aldrich laughed.

"Well, I would be," he said, "if anybody were to kick me like that."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The world needs a friend more than a figure in history.

How the Lhasa Terrier Might Have Opened the Gates of the Sacred City.

The little toy dog of Tibet which kennel club edicts have declared shall properly be known as the "Lhasa Terrier," is no novelty in our midst, although his name here in an unkind climate possibly do not reach a round dozen, says G. R. Fry's Magazine.

He has been shown and exploited by fashionable ladies for some five or six years past, and was by way of taking a lead with other Asiatic breeds that were all the go—the "looted" spaniels of the dowager empress, the edible and hairless dogs of China, and the pet dog of the Japanese monarch—when the flat of a too restrictive board of agriculture fell, spelling one word—quarantine. That influence, therefore, which might have opened the gates of Lhasa, and perhaps, too, the hospitable heart of the grand lama himself, and which even might have rendered expeditions unnecessary, received a check.

Woman's curiosity in regard to "points" of the pope of Asia's own particular dogs had to be satisfied with second-hand information about our large cities during the past dozen or 15 years, and a veneration of marble with glazed brick and terra cotta ornamentation conceals the novel characteristic of the structure. This was because the owners or architects hardly had the complete courage of their convictions and perhaps did not wish to advertise too conspicuously their disregard of precedents and prevailing methods.

The employment of material in the work is as follows: The concrete is made of high-grade Port land cement with clean sand of various sized grains and crushed stone. # DOGS OF ANCIENT LINEAGE.

How the Lhasa Terrier Might Have Opened the Gates of the Sacred City.

The departure of the soldiers from a district such as Tokio presents many points of interest. The youth of the men is a little remarkable, the good spirits and the order highly so. Every large Japanese house in one's neighborhood has soldiers billeted in it—in the capacious suite of houses belonging to the Tokugawa family as many as 500 soldiers are said to be lodged, says a Tokio correspondence of the London Times.

Yet, except for the matter of seeing the soldiers about the gates and doors, the neighborhood shows no difference either in sight or sound. When a body of men is marched to the station for enlistment there are observers on the roadside showing an interest in the prospect, but for the most part they are themselves up with the troops, or in any way help to throw them into confusion. One hears strange stories of the calm resolution with which each individual looks forward to death as a certain result of their campaign; even of mothers telling their sons that they have no wish to see them again—they devote them to the service of the emperor. The high spirits and good-tempered smile of the soldiers which one sees here in continual evidence seem to our western eyes inconsistent with such stoicism, yet stoicism was characteristic of old Japan, and has its counterpart in the new.

One hears further of men divorcing their wives out of pure philanthropy. The divorced woman somewhat readily marries again, the widow rarely, so the divorced go back to her parents and waits her time, while the soldier husband is free to sacrifice his life without a claim upon it. How excellently the Japanese patience and indomitable pluck have served our nation on the sea has been amply shown in the opening events of the present war. Before these notes are read there will certainly have been many tests of the same qualities on land. What is even more to the point here, there will have been a heavy drain on the resources of the funds which have been enumerated.

Golf Increases Price of Gutta Percha.

Until about ten years ago the submarine cable companies used practically the whole world's supply of gutta percha, for the reason that, unlike rubber, it is not affected by salt water. But when the cable companies began to use the balls, and the demand for it increased to so great an extent that the production nearly doubled.

Ships from Singapore, the Straits Settlements, now bring enormous cargoes of it, and although twice as much is imported by England as was imported ten years ago, the price has advanced about 100 per cent. This, the cable companies say, is due solely to the manufacture of golf balls.—Philadelphia Record.

Uses of Carbolic Acid.

The success of the Germans in developing commercial uses for liquefied carbolic acid has just led to an attempt in France to increase the customs duties on this substance. The Germans were the first to discover its commercial importance, and they found its antiseptic properties valuable for the treatment of beer. Everybody knows how it is employed in soda water, sparkling wines and Selters or Seltzer water. It is also used for making artificial ice; it has been employed in fire-extinguishers, and more recently a new use has been discovered for it in destroying vermin in ships and cellars.—Youth's Companion.

Bold Wager.

Having wagered $40 that he would steal five medals from a policeman's chest, a young man in Paris secured two, says the Petit Parisien, but was caught at the third attempt and will be prosecuted.

Cultivating sympathy with ourselves never makes us tender to others.

JAPANESE ON THE MARCH.

Good Spirits and Good Order a Noticeable Thing in the Mikado's Troops.

There are several species of sumac, and most of them are harmless, but if we do not know one from the other we are apt to feel uncomfortable in the presence of any of them, says Woman's Home Companion. The poisonous species may be readily distinguished from either the smooth sumac or the stag-horn sumac by reason of the fact that the leaflets of these species are saw-edged, while those of the poison-sumac are "entire," that is, without teeth or lobes. The other species with which it may be confused is the mountain sumac; but as this shrub the leaflets are widened out into so-called "wings," it need not be mistaken for its dangerous relative, but for forest ailments. The poison-ivy, a near relative of the poison-sumac, though usually a creeper, is classed with the shrubs, and sometimes becomes one when it happens to grow in a spot where there are no supports for its aerial rootlets. This plant has compound leaves with three leaflets, a fact which enables us to distinguish it at once from the Virginia creeper, which has five leaflets, and from the bitter-sweet, which has from seven to nine.

NOTE CAUSED SETTLEMENT.

Japanese Diplomacy May Be at Times Equal to Their Pugnacity.

The Japanese can win distinction at the desk of the counting house as readily as in the sea fight, says the Westminster Gazette. One who obtained a situation with an English firm on trial was asked a few days after his appointment by the cashier to write to a customer who had owed some money to the house for a long time and who seemed to have no intention of paying. "Write briefly and politely," said the cashier, "but let him understand distinctly that we expect him to pay the money without further delay." The letter was written, and on the following day came a check for the amount due. The surprised cashier asked the new clerk to show him a copy of the letter which had been so effectual. It ran thus:

"Dear Sir: If you do not send us at once the money you owe us we shall be obliged to take steps which will cause you the utmost astonishment. Respectfully yours."

The form seems to combine oriental subtlety and western point.

HAVE YOUR OWN THINK.

The Earth May Be Flat or It May Be Round, Take Your Choice.

There is no earthly reason why you should persist in believing that the earth is flat and round at all. You will have plenty of company in your "conviction," and there are millions who are still more heterodox in their beliefs, says Stray Stories.

The cleverest men in Arabia are absolutely convinced that the earth is egg-shaped and floats half submerged in the sea; the Hindu Vedas says that it is as flat as a plate, and supported on a number of high pillars; some South American tribes believe that it is an island afloat in an interminable sea; and millions of people in India couldn't be persuaded that it is not of the shape of an enormous inverted bowl or dish cover, supported by four elephants which have an insecure footing on the back of a brooding nagian tortoise.

You mustn't mind if you can't convince the misguided millions who persist in pinning their faith to a spherical earth.

Just a Bit Curious.

At this time of year material and the girls go to summer resorts, dress in starched clothes, eat heavy dinners, and call it pleasure; the families and the boys stay in town, shed coats and waistcoats and starch, feed on beer and frankfurters, and call it work. United States is a curious language.—Washington Times.

There are few vices worse than vinegary virtues.

ABOUT THE POISON-SUMAC.

How the Species May Be Distinguished by Ramblers in the Woods.

The poisonous species may be readily distinguished from either the smooth sumac or the stag-horn sumac by reason of the fact that the leaflets of these species are saw-edged, while those of the poison-sumac are "entire," that is, without teeth or lobes. The other species with which it may be confused is the mountain sumac; but as this shrub the leaflets are widened out into so-called "wings," it need not be mistaken for its dangerous relative, but for forest ailments. The poison-ivy, a near relative of the poison-sumac, though usually a creeper, is classed with the shrubs, and sometimes becomes one when it happens to grow in a spot where there are no supports for its aerial rootlets. This plant has compound leaves with three leaflets, a fact which enables us to distinguish it at once from the Virginia creeper, which has five leaflets, and from the bitter-sweet, which has from seven to nine.

NOTE CAUSED SETTLEMENT.

Japanese Diplomacy May Be at Times Equal to Their Pugnacity.

The Japanese can win distinction at the desk of the counting house as readily as in the sea fight, says the Westminster Gazette. One who obtained a situation with an English firm on trial was asked a few days after his appointment by the cashier to write to a customer who had owed some money to the house for a long time and who seemed to have no intention of paying. "Write briefly and politely," said the cashier, "but let him understand distinctly that we expect him to pay the money without further delay." The letter was written, and on the following day came a check for the amount due. The surprised cashier asked the new clerk to show him a copy of the letter which had been so effectual. It ran thus:

"Dear Sir: If you do not send us at once the money you owe us we shall be obliged to take steps which will cause you the utmost astonishment. Respectfully yours."

The form seems to combine oriental subtlety and western point.

HAVE YOUR OWN THINK.

The Earth May Be Flat or It May Be Round, Take Your Choice.

There is no earthly reason why you should persist in believing that the earth is flat and round at all. You will have plenty of company in your "conviction," and there are millions who are still more heterodox in their beliefs, says Stray Stories.

The cleverest men in Arabia are absolutely convinced that the earth is egg-shaped and floats half submerged in the sea; the Hindu Vedas says that it is as flat as a plate, and supported on a number of high pillars; some South American tribes believe that it is an island afloat in an interminable sea; and millions of people in India couldn't be persuaded that it is not of the shape of an enormous inverted bowl or dish cover, supported by four elephants which have an insecure footing on the back of a brooding nagian tortoise.

You mustn't mind if you can't convince the misguided millions who persist in pinning their faith to a spherical earth.

Just a Bit Curious.

At this time of year material and the girls go to summer resorts, dress in starched clothes, eat heavy dinners, and call it pleasure; the families and the boys stay in town, shed coats and waistcoats and starch, feed on beer and frankfurters, and call it work. United States is a curious language.—Washington Times.
